CN Train Derailment - Update

The following update is being provided on behalf of St. Clair County Emergency Management. CN crews are continuing to work toward removing the derailed cars from the international St. Clair tunnel from the incident that occurred early Friday morning. A meeting to update progress and current status of the incident was held with CN officials, key contractors, EPA officials, Port Huron Fire Chief, a Michigan State Police Emergency Management Homeland Security Division official, and St. Clair County Emergency Management Officials at approximately 4:30 p.m. Pumping continues as needed. Air monitoring, both at the site and around the perimeter, is ongoing. No air or environmental impacts have been detected. There continues to be no danger to public safety or waterways.

CN crews have removed an additional rail car from the tunnel today. At this time, there is no timeline for completion. Updates will be provided as the situation evolves.
