TALK. TEST. TREAT.

Services are available for teens and adults who may be at risk for STI's and/or HIV.

WHO CAN BE SEEN?

Anyone who is sexually active or seeking birth control methods, including some groups who are more affected:

- Young people aged 15-24
- Men who have sex with men
- LGBTQIA+ persons
- Racial & ethnic minority groups

WHY SHOULD I GET TESTED?

- 1 in 2 sexually active people will get an STI by the age of 25.
- 1 in 5 people in the U.S. have an STI.
- Almost half of the new STIs reported were among youth aged 15 -24 in the U.S.
- If you think it can't happen to you... think again. STIs often show no symptoms, the only way to know is to get tested.
- STIs can mimic other health conditions in sexually active adults in their 50s, 60s, and 70s.
- Sexually active individuals less than 25 years old are recommended to be screened annually for certain STIs.
